One Man's Opinion

By CARL BRIGGS

Mayor Joseph Alioto of San Francisco is currently carrying on a "turn in your gun" campaign complete with television commercials that depict a small boy with a toy gun that is somehow supposed to convey the message that this is bad and leads to all sorts of crime. The commercial ends with a plea to turn in your gun at a local police or fire station, and "no questions asked."

I find that last bit of third-grade psychology to be both insulting and irritating, the pointed implication of "no questions asked" being that we are infested with some sort of ethereal guilt if we own a gun but we will be forgiven and absolved and permitted to leave if we voluntarily surrender it. This is the kind of guilt-by-association that was fed to us during the McCarthy witch-hunts (Joe, not Eugene), and it was easy to think, complacently, that we had outgrown that kind of sweeping damnation. Apparently we have not.

There is no connection between the average person who owns a gun or assembles collections of guns and the average murderer or armed robber.

We are living in a time of violence and there must be solutions to the problems. I don't pretend to know what those solutions might be, but prohibiting the possession of firearms — and let's make no mistake about the direction we are taking — is not going to appreciably change the moral atmosphere of our society. Furthermore, if the moral atmosphere could be altered by passing such laws, then I believe that such alteration would be harmful — creating an atmosphere of greater fear, suspicion, and mistrust rather than a lessening of these things, and there would be no decrease in the danger to all of us that is represented by the criminal or unstable mind. Crime is largely a moral issue and morality simply cannot be legislated.

Gun legislation would penalize the hunter, the marksman, the collector — the law-abiding citizen — but would not in the slightest penalize or inhibit the criminal bent on crime or the nut bent on destruction. We already have laws against shooting people and sticking up gas stations, and stricter laws and stricter enforcement of laws concerning the illegal use of firearms would seem to be much more to the point.

There was no shortage of booze or alcoholics during prohibition, and if bottled goods were unavailable from your friendly local bootlegger, you just stirred up a batch in the bathtub. There seems to be no shortage of marijuana either, during ITS prohibition, and we hear reports of backyard gardens of the stuff flourishing. Pornography has been around since the invention of the printing press, and strict censorship laws down through the centuries have never eradicated it. We can justifiably assume there will be no shortage of guns and crime under gun prohibition. Guns are easy to make, easy to steal, will be easy to buy under the counter; and the prohibition of anything at all seems to immeasurably enhance its use and possession. Sweeping restrictive legislation of any kind is far more unfair to the majority than it is inhibiting to the unlawful minority at which it is aimed, particularly in a free society. But, what the hell, if we keep legislating restrictions on ourselves, we won't have a free society anyway.

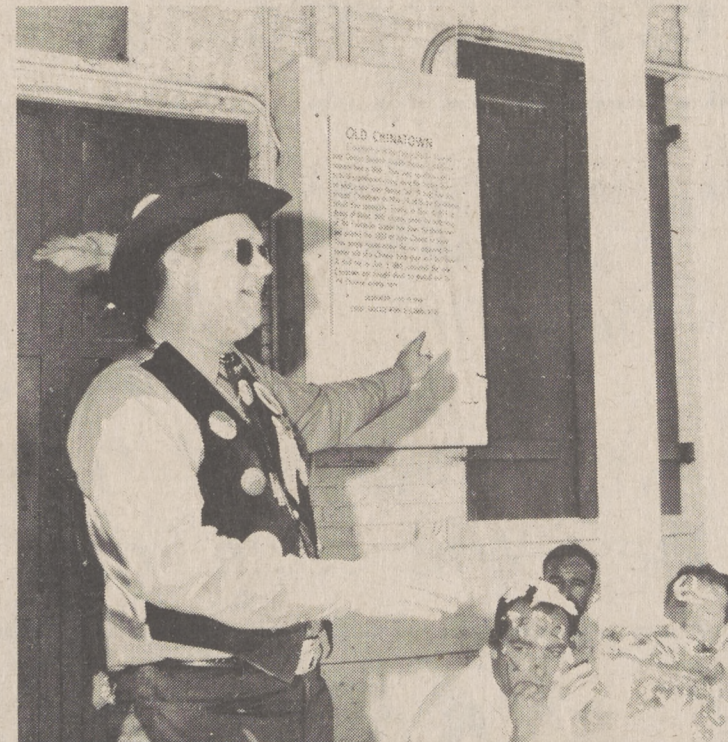

We don't need more laws to restrict the law-abiding majority but rather more laws to protect the majority, and we need laws to correct conditions in our society that breed poverty, crime, and murder; that foster hate, fear, and prejudice; that perpetuate ignorance and disease and mental illness; that make people riot and steal and assassinate. These are the considerations and problems that we must meet and solve, and prohibition is clearly not the answer.

Require Okay On Contracts

To make certain all technical questions are cleared the Nevada County board of supervisors will no longer approve any contracts until they have been reviewed by the county counsel and county auditor.

It has long been the practice for the county counsel to approve the legal language of contracts coming before the board, but some contracts have slipped by because there was not a firm, official policy.

Tuesday, the supervisors made the policy firm and official that "all contracts must be first cleared by the county counsel and auditor-controller before being presented to the board."

The auditor's review is necessary, the board felt, to make certain that money is budgeted to pay for whatever the county is contracting to do.

Board Clerk Maxine Gaines said the recent recreation feasibility study contract ran into a problem because Terry Ashford, who did the study, did not sign his portion and return it until this Monday. The problem is that the money was budgeted in 1966-67 and is not budgeted this year.

The $500 to pay Ashford should have been encountered at the time the board agreed to the contract.

Auditor John T. Trauner also mentioned that he has seen improved contracts which were presented by department heads but which were not submitted to the county counsel.

Other business before the board Tuesday included these items:

A hearing on whether additional drainage and street improvements should be made in the South Donner Lake streets and drainage project drew protests from some property owners.

A financial consultant for the project said the cost, estimated at $53,000, probably would create a shortage in the overall project and thus might require an additional assessment.

Desmond Worth, a property owner, said a survey he took showed 137 residents oppose the additional work, while 13 favor it. He suggested the work might be financed by the contingency fund rather than an additional assessment.

However, a letter from another property owner urged that the work be done, citing an open ditch which "is dangerous and ugly" and should be covered.

At the request of Public Works Director Harry Hider, the supervisors tabled the item a week so he can study cost estimates and plans.

A hearing was set for July 23 at 10:30 a.m. on rezoning of Birch Meadows Ranches to residential-agricultural with building site minimums restricted to the lot sizes shown on the final map.

Exceptions to improvements required for Ski Town subdivision at Soda Springs were approved.

Final budget hearings will start on Aug. 13 at 1:30 p.m., the board decided, and will continue the following two Tuesdays if needed. The budget must be adopted by Aug. 30.

Two Killed, Two Injured At Incline Village

INCLINE VILLAGE — Chapman Wentworth, former publisher of the Tahoe Daily Tribune, South Lake Tahoe, and his wife, Janet, 47, sustained multiple injuries in a two-car accident here Monday night that killed two Incline residents.

Wentworth, 50, who has public relations offices here, and his wife were listed in fair condition today at Washoe Medical Center, Reno.

Wentworth sustained rib and lung injuries, and his wife, rib and lung injuries and facial cuts, according to a hospital spokesman.

Dead are Russell K. Crews, and his wife, Gloria, both 41. According to a Washoe County Sheriff's official, the Crews were southbound on Village Drive. The Wentworths were westbound on Southwood Boulevard, the official reported.

The Wentworth vehicle apparently failed to halt at a stop sign, the officer said, and the two vehicles collided. Both autos were demolished the officer said. An investigation is continuing.

Crews and his wife, five months pregnant, were apparently thrown from their vehicle, the officer said. Crews was pronounced dead on arrival at Washoe Medical Center, where his wife died two hours later.

Nevada County Studies Its Personnel Policies

A set of procedures and policies for Nevada county's personnel commission were approved in principle by the board of supervisors Tuesday.

The supervisors ordered the county counsel's office to draft a resolution ratifying the rules and regulations as adopted by the commission.

Lou Kennedy, chairman of the commission, pointed out that much of the material in the eight-page list of procedures has been practiced in the past, but had not been made formal policy.

Much of the study session discussion revolved around how to inform applicants for county jobs that they are not qualified for a position or that none is available. There are so many applicants for some high turnover jobs such as clerks, that the commission has not informed each of them individually that they didn't get a job.

The board discussed having forms prepared to send to these people, as several supervisors said they have been criticized for not having some such procedure. The only board member verbally opposing such a procedure was Chairman Bret Benallack, but no action was taken Tuesday on this issue.

Instead, the personnel commission will study this question and make a specific recommendation to the board.

Nevada county's practice is to have all applications for all jobs except department heads, referred to the personnel commission. That group, appointed by the supervisors, studies the applicants and reduces the list to the three or four persons who best meet the requirements for the particular job which is open.

The department head who has the vacancy then selects the person he wants to hire from his list.

The formal list of procedures spells out reasons a department head can discipline or dismiss an employee, but does not limit his action entirely to the items mentioned. Causes for disciplinary action include:

— Fraud in securing appointment; unfitness for position; inefficiency; neglect of duty; consumption of alcoholic beverages while on the job; addiction to the use of narcotics or habit forming drugs.

Willful disobedience, insubordination, unexcused absence without leave, discourteous treatment of the general public or fellow employees.

Willful misuse of public property, immorality, dishonesty, conviction of a felony, acts unbecoming a public employee.

Any failure of good behavior or acts either during or outside office hours which are incompatible with or inimical to the public service, and any such other reason as may be adopted by the commission, upon ratification by the board of supervisors of such reasons.

When a department head wants to fire a permanent employee, he must notify the employee of the reason in writing. A copy of this notice must be sent to the personnel commission.

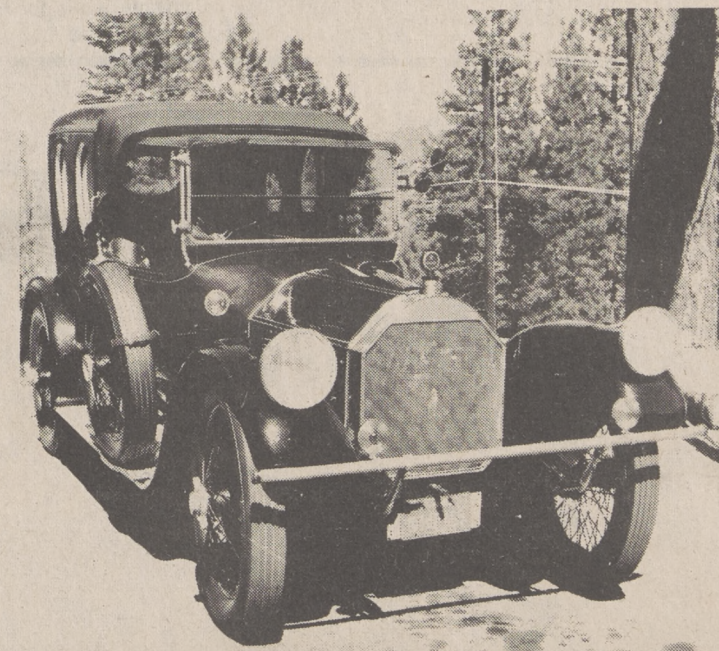

An employee who has been fired can appeal within 10 days.

Library Meeting

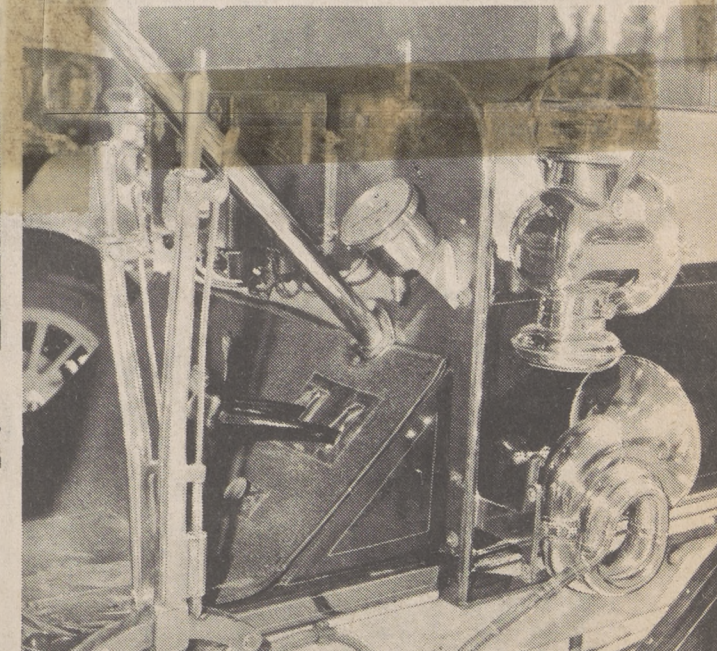

Persons interested in obtaining county library service in Truckee are invited to attend a public meeting at the county building in Truckee, Tuesday, July 23 at 7:30 p.m.

For several years, local people have been searching for a way to obtain a library for the community, and alternate methods will be presented that night by Miss Virginia Hughes, library consultant for the California State Library.

Last month, Miss Hughes met with a group of citizens and explained several types of services which could be available to Nevada County. She said there is a good deal of money available to the county if there is sufficient interest. Miss Hughes will also be meeting with groups in Nevada City and Grass Valley to determine the interest there.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following letter was written to Mr. and Mrs. Carson White of Donner Lake from Dr. Earl C. Rhoads, noted historian of the Donner Party era, and is published here with the kind permission of the Whites.)

Dear Friends:

I made this "history in a nutshell" for you to enjoy . . . I have always liked the story of Moses Schallenger's stay at Donner Lake. He made the best of a bad situation and lived where others failed, and his later story is also the tale of a great man . . .

"At Donner Lake, 1844; the snow was now about two feet deep. Doctor Townsend and Moses Schallenger had brought an invoice of valuable goods which they intended to sell in California. They realized now they could never get the wagon over the mountains. Schallenger volunteered to remain and protect the goods. Joseph Foster and Allen Montgomery agreed to stay.

They left two cows, worn out and poor, for food. There seemed to be plenty of game and the boys were good hunters and well supplied with ammunition, so they would have plenty of meat anyway. They had not tasted bread for weeks. The morning after the others left they set about making a cabin to keep them comfortable. They cut trees and yoked up their poor cows and hauled the logs. Together with these they formed into a rude house and covered it with raw hides and pine brush. The size was about twelve by fourteen feet. They made a chimney of logs, eight or ten feet high on the outside, and used some large stones for the jambs and back. There were no windows; neither was the house chinked or daubed as was usual in log houses, but they notched the logs down so close that they nearly or quite touched. A hole was cut for a door which was never closed. They left it open in the daytime to give light and as they had plenty of good beds and bedding, and they were not afraid of burglars, they left it open at night also.

On the evening of the day they finished their little house it began to snow and that night three feet fell. They could not hunt the next day; the weather was not too cold, so they thought the snow would soon melt, but a week passed and instead of any going off, more came. They were compelled to kill their two cows, as they could not get around for food and would starve to death. The boys hung the meat up and that night it froze and it was cold enough to keep it frozen.

It kept on snowing continually and the little cabin was almost covered. The snow was soft and deep; the boys could not hunt and they had eaten over half their meat, so they became very blue for there seemed to be no possible hope for them.

So they decided to start for California on foot. They made snowshoes, but they did not understand how to fasten them to their feet. The snow would crumble in on top of the shoe and in a short time each shoe weighed ten pounds. When they reached the summit, about sunset and fifteen miles, Moses, still a growing boy, was seized with cramps and fell down several times. Next morning Moses was so stiff he could hardly move. The other two could not give him any assistance so Moses decided to return to the cabin and live as long as possible on the quarter of beef that was still there.

They did not say much at parting. There was just a simple warm clasp of the hands and a 'good bye.' This 'good bye' Moses' rang in his ears for years.

His champions had not been long out of sight before his spirits began to revive and he began to think that something might 'turn up.' So he strapped on his blankets and dried beef, shouldered his gun and began to retrace his steps to the cabin. It had frozen during the night and this enabled him to walk on their trail without snowshoes. He was so weakened by the walk and cramps of the day before that he never was so tired in his whole life as, just before dark, as came to the cabin. The door sill was only nine inches high but he could not step over it without taking his hands to raise his leg.

As soon as he was able to travel around the next morning, he put on his snowshoes and, taking his rifle, scoured the country around. The result was he saw plenty of tracks, but no fixes. He was discouraged and sick at heart. As he put his gun in the corner, his eyes fell upon some steel traps that Capt. Stevens had brought with him and left in his wagon. In an instant the thought flashed across his mind, 'If I can't shoot a coyote or a fox, why not trap one.' The heads of the two cows he cut to pieces for bait and he raked the snow from some fallen trees and found other sheltered places to set his traps. That night he went to bed with a lighter heart and was able to get some sleep. As soon as daylight came he

While we have no personal knowledge of the effects of marijuana, a currently controversial subject, we quote the following from a report issued by the division of delinquency prevention of the California Youth Authority:

Marijuana, both legally and medically, is classified as a narcotic. Its effects have sedative, stimulant and hallucinogenic qualities, tending to exaggerate whatever emotional mood the user may be feeling at the time.

Marijuana was used in numerous medications for many years as alcohol is used in a variety of medicines today. Because of the unpredictable, bad side effects, it was rejected by the medical field as having no therapeutic value in and of itself and as being unsuitable for human use.

Marijuana is made from the flowering tops and leaves of the Indian hemp plant, cannabis sativa, and is frequently called pot, weed, tea and grass. It is most often smoked as a cigarette called a reefer, stick or joint.

Its effects are unpredictable and sometimes violent. When used in combination with alcohol, it causes an uncontrollable intoxication which can be very dangerous. While it is not considered physically addicting, it may become habit forming.

Excessive indulgence over a long period of time can lead to mental deterioration. Such users exhibit characteristics of one who is punchy, i.e., their speech is slurred and they ramble vaguely, being unable to hold a trend of thought.

To the occasional user, it may cause distortion of time and space. A passenger in a car going 80 miles an hour may open the door and get out because he feels he is barely moving!

Objects may change in size and proportion. An individual may feel small enough to crawl through the keyhole of a door, or tall enough to step over a building. A tiny spider may appear frighteningly enormous in size; or a speeding locomotive may appear like a toy electric train.

To some users, there is a feeling of light-headedness and intoxication. Then everything may suddenly seem uproariously funny, causing uncontrollable laughter; or the user may become very depressed, for no apparent reason.

It may create a false sense of achievement, strength, power; or it may make the user feel helpless, unprotected and terrified.

These symptoms of illegal use of marijuana demonstrate the same unpredictable characteristics that caused the medical profession to discontinue using it as a medical ingredient.

The principal danger of using marijuana is that it causes loss of judgment and leaves the user helplessly open-minded to senseless or dangerous suggestions.

Marijuana inevitably leads to the use and addiction of heroin.

Announce Sale Of Cozzi's

Crose said changes would be made in the establishment, including the name and a complete renovation. Included in the sale are a liquor license and all the fixtures.

The sale does not involve the trailer units owned by Steve Cozzi, adjoining the restaurant.

Dale Harris, who formerly operated the Capitol Pizzi Parlor and Kenneth Osburn have been employed to manage the restaurant and cocktail lounge. Mr. and Mrs. Cozzi have not announced their immediate plans for the future.

A Lesson Learned

By ERNIE RILEY

Diane was such a pretty, well behaved little girl, just about seven years old, smart as a whip and bubbling over with life. Diane lives across from our gas station on the beautiful Truckee River. With her fourteen year old dog Molly, she would come over to be sure that the donkey, goat, and other animals in our corral were fed and made comfortable. Then between riding her bike around the station, getting in our way, and asking hundreds of questions, we would get upset with her, even being a little harsh and chasing her home.

One day Diane and Molly failed to show. Later in the day, we learned they had wandered down the Truckee River to where a horse was in a corral. Diane and Molly got too close to the horse, which for some reason lashed out, striking her in the face. Though badly injured, she struggled about half-way home. When Molly arrived home alone, a search was made. Diane was found more dead than alive, lying on a large rock at the river's edge. A call to the Sheriff's office brought immediate help, and Diane was in the hospital under loving care in a very short time. It was nip and tuck for several weeks for little Diane.

Diane is home again and we look for her every day. Riding her bike around the station, asking hundreds of questions, still very perty, smart as a whip, and bubbling over with life.

Diane has taught us a needed lesson. We thank our lucky stars that Diane is still with us. Through her, we have learned to love all the little ones, all the time, not only when it pleases us.

Our little friend is Diane La-Tour. Thought for today: Love your enemies, you made them.

Phil Jolley, Truckee artist, proved to be quite a hero when he leaped into the Truckee river to pull Bobby Jean Dolley, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Dolley from the swift current. Bobby Jean was wading in the edge of the stream and stepped too far out and was caught in the current. Jolley saw the girl bobbing along and jumped into the cold water, clothes and all and brought her to safety.

While no definite word has been received regarding the fate of Robert Leamon, a member of the crew of the ill-fated USS Helena, sunk by the Japanese in Kula Gulf, it is hoped he was one of the 600 survivors. Bob was the third Truckee boy to have ships shot from under them. The others are Heslin Cardinal, a crew member on the USS Gregory and Dave Bolender of the USS Northampton.

There were 13 lightning fires reported in the Truckee and Sierraville district during July, none of which caused more than a small loss. Ranger H. I. Snyder reported, A Reno man arrested for burning debris without a permit paid a $5 fine to Justice of the Peace Evelyn Bliss at Tahoe City.

Doug Barrett writes from his airforce base in Alaska and reports there is no rationing in that area. As a result he and two weather men went into town to partake of a T-bone steak dinner, garnished with French fries and topped with a quart of beer. The check came to $5 and he reports it one of the best investments he ever made.

Sponsored by the Native Daughters of the Golden West, a concerted drive is now on foot to include Donner Lake and the surrounding area in the state park system as a permanent memorial to the pioneers of California. Gov. Frank Merriam announced he was attempting to have between 400,000 and 500,000 acres set aside in the state and this would include the Donner area. W. B. Gelatt, manager of the Donner Lake Company, said he believed the company would be receptive to the idea.

More than 175,000 rainbow trout are being held in the Tallac hatchery awaiting removal to the tanks of the Flycasters Club near Truckee where they will be raised and planted in the Truckee river this fall. Last year the club, with the cooperation of local business people, raised 700,000 fingerlings at a cost of $900. D. E. Kessler, club president, said a similar program of cooperation is expected this year.

N. F. Dolley was installed as noble grand of Donner Lodge No. 162, 100F.

James Gleaton and Nelson Stone of the Truckee district of the Tahoe National Forest were dispatched to the Oregon state line to assist in fighting a number of fires in that area.

Robert McCarthy of San Francisco has been awarded a contract to build a new quarantine station on the Truckee river east of here at a cost of $14,948.

The folks of Andrew Finnegan have just received word of his safe arrival in France with the A.E.F.

Word has just been received from Fairfield that the court has confirmed sale of the famous Timm Dairy in Solano County to J.W. Davey and P.M. Doyle, formerly of Truckee, for the sum of $165,000. They have also obtained a lease on several thousand acres from Mrs. Timm for grazing purposes.

Taxes On Personal Property Reported Billed This Week

Marcella J. Carson, Nevada County Tax Collector, stated today that nearly 1600 unsecured tax bills totalling in excess of $230 thousand dollars will be mailed out this week.

These cover taxes due on businesses, furniture, boats, livestock and other assessable items not assessed with real property on Secured Tax roll. Delinquent date for the Unsecured tax bills is August 31, 1968. However, inasmuch as this date falls on Saturday, and with a holiday on the following Monday, delinquent date has been extended to Sept. 3, at 5 p.m., after which date a penalty of six per cent will be added to all unpaid items.

Mrs. Carson asks that these bills not be ignored. Any questions should be referred to either her office or the office of the County Assessor, Elton A. Toblissen, Nevada City, for clarification.

Bids Taken

TAHOE VISTA — Bids are being taken by the North Tahoe Public Utility District Board of Directors on $510,000 in general obligation bonds to finance improvement of the district's water system.

The district plans to construct larger water mains, build a 500,000-gallon reservoir and make other "backup" means to insure a plentiful water supply.

Former Truckee Girl Wed

The Palisades Lake Club-house patio was the lovely setting July 8 for the wedding of Elizabeth Smisek and Kenneth Ammerman, performed by Rev. Clarence Freeman of the Auburn Methodist Church.

The bride, formerly of Truckee, daughter of Mrs. Erma Hartman of Sacramento and William Smisek of Dunsmuir, was given in marriage by William Reed of Palisades.

Her gown was of white embroidered cotton, complemented by a veil of net at shoulder length and she carried a bouquet of white carnations. Ann Mackay Finch of Auburn attended as matron-of-honor and Walter Sitre of Truckee performed the duty of best man.

The altar was decorated with colorful flowers and fernery of the mountain area; following the nuptial service, a reception was given in the nearby summer home of Mrs. Bernice Mackay. The three-tiered cake was surrounded by white gardenia.

Friends and members of the family who attended the rites included Mr. and Mrs. Leon Hartman and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Givens of Sacramento; Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. William Parsons, Mrs. Bernice Mackay, Merilee Clark, Mollie Mackay, all of Auburn; Mr. and Mrs. William Reed of Palisades; Mrs. Bud Arnold of Santa Rosa; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sitre and Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Pace.

LAKE ECHOES

By BETHEL
Honolulu's Kamehameha Homecoming Queen for 1968, Colleen Silva, is spending the summer with her cousin, Joyce Rowe, at Kings Beach. Colleen is a graduate of 1968 from Kamehameha — where students must be of Hawaiian descent to attend.

Colleen plans to attend college on the mainland. This is her first visit to the mainland and she plans to acquaint herself with California and Nevada before entering college. As Homecoming Queen she also toured Hawaii with the Don Ho group.

Theme song for Marcie Jenkins and Bob Garrow of Kings Beach was "The Beer Barrel Polka" while a decision was being made on who's who in the barrel business. A bill of sale put the chains and padlocks on Bob's barrels and presentation of new ones to Marcie. They have now changed their theme to "Happy Days Are Here Again." Incidentally, these barrels are proving to be of great help in the Kings Beach area and they have caught many a LitterBug.

Double happiness to Barbara Coryell of Kings Beach and Alhambra. Barbara and husband, Loren, celebrated their tenth wedding anniversary on July 2. A dinner at the Four Winds with Elsie and Bob Garrow observed the happy occasion.

Peggy and Harold Gruendermann of Mt. Cloud, California, have been visiting friends and relatives on the North Shore this past week with daughter, Gretchen, at Kings Beach and daughter, Sally, at Lake Forest.

The Gruendermanns are former longtime Kings Beach residents and Harold is now in the Forest Service at McCloud.

Visiting friends on the North Shore were former residents, Marilyn and Jack Boatman of Alhambra, and Ruth and Ron West of Monterey Park. Marilyn and Ruth are sisters of Barbara Coreyell.

The Boatman's son, Jim and his wife, Margie, and daughter, Cinda, have moved from Truckee to Reno. Jim attended Tahoe-Truckee High and is well-known at Tahoe.

Ruth West's son, Ricky Krips, who also attended the local schools, was married on April 27 to Terri Keeler. He is attending Los Angeles Junior College and working for an insurance company in Alhambra.

How to Get Acquainted With Your Neighbor. In the mail last week, we received two copies of the Sierra Sun, after noting that one was addressed to a neighbor we delivered it personally. Thereby, we met Dorothy and Ed Urst of Reno and Donner Lake. They are old-timers at Donner Lake and neighbors are Alice and John Keeling of Berkeley who spend the summer at their Donner Lake home.

Congratulations to Pearl Draney of Incline Beach who not only has received recognition for community service but has brought prestige to the North Shore and the VFW, Lake Tahoe Auxiliary 7077. Display Batik Fashions In Ice Cream Parlor

An unusual collection of Batik printed fashions and fabrics were shown by San Francisco designer Sue Williams at "The Ice Cream Parlor" in Squaw Valley Lodge last Wednesday.

Miss Williams hand paints with commercial dyes in original patterns on cottons and silks, first applying wax to those areas not to be colored. Judy Goldsmith, Miss Williams' partner, initially cuts the garment pattern, after which it is batiked. One ensemble, a three-piece linen pants suit completely lined in the crepe of the blouse, took Miss Goldsmith 17 hours to cut and sew! Additional hours were necessary for the design application on the jacket.

The Fall fashion prediction for a new look in pants was reflected in three ensembles. The narrow-hipped, wide leg-bottom, a very flattering look, will be very big this coming year.

Men were not forgotten in the "KAS" collection. A wild orange print on red broadcloth nightshirt carried the owner's name printed inside the neck and a handsome muslin mao shirt had subtle trim along the front closing and cuffs.

After the informal showing, a number of the guests tried on the clothes and placed orders for their own Williams original. Models included Mrs. Peter Klaussen and Mrs. Robert Thompson, and hostess Mrs. Ed Spolin wore her own "KAS" — a lovely multicolored floor length skirt and coordinated blouse.

Miss Williams will show fashions for fall and winter, including printed cotton velvets for apres ski, on August 21 at the Squaw Valley Inn. The 11 a.m. poolside brunch and show will be $2.75, and reservations may be made by calling 583-4431.

Crystal Bay Club Shows 'Delightfully Different'

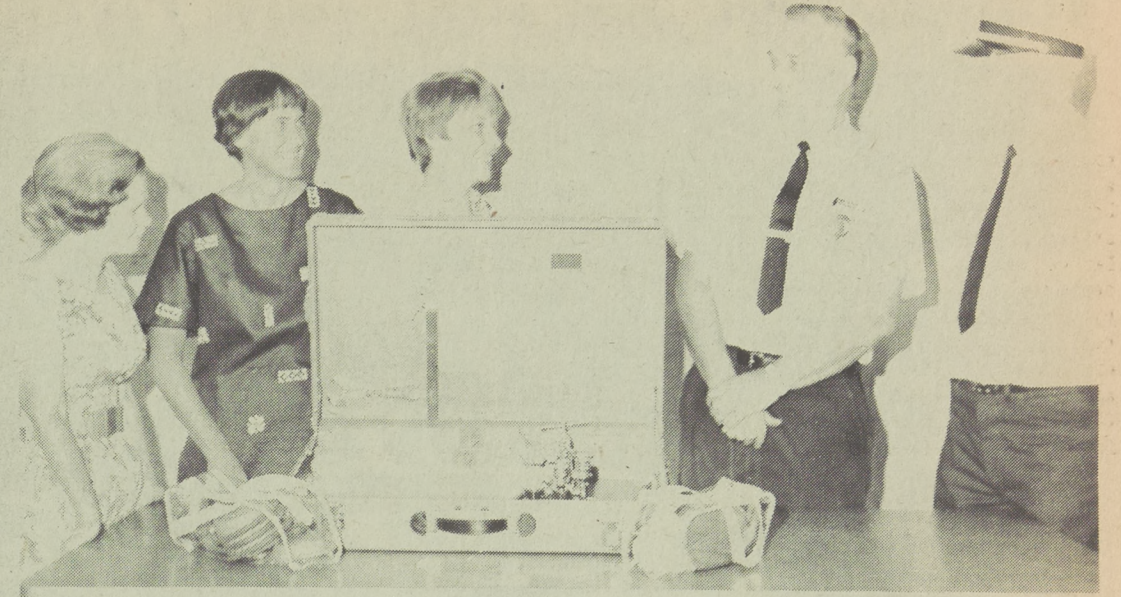

Entertainment in the Stage Lounge of the Crystal Bay Club on the North Shore, Lake Tahoe, is delightfully different in every aspect as the fabulous Jets and Frankie Fanelli present a fun-filled package of music, comedy and song.

As always, the riotous Jets provide Crystal Bay Club audiences with a banquet of laughter that encompasses all the talents of yesteryear's great comedians. The Jets run the gamut of great entertainment, dishing out the clowning antics of the Marx Brothers, the whimsy of Laurel and Hardy and the broad appeal of Abbot and Costello. When the Jets get into action, an innuendo or an expression can shake up an audience with laughter that knows no bounds. This trio of nuts has got to be one of the funniest acts to ever appear in this area, and audiences keep coming back to enjoy repeat performances.

Balancing the entertainment scale with magnificent song stylings is Frankie Fanelli. Frankie captivates Crystal Bay Club audiences night after night to such a degree that it borders on the fantastic. Thunderous applause echoes throughout the Stage Lounge when Frankie rips loose with one of his Italian melodies such as "Come Back To Sorrento." This young singer is also a favorite of the national entertainment picture, as evidenced by numerous television appearances and hitting the top 40 in recordings. Currently, Frankie is holding audiences in the palm of his hand with the kind of vocals they want to hear.

Rounding out the entertainment is Charles Gould and his Satin Strings, who bring sparkling music nightly to patrons in the Crystal Dining Room and Crystal Steak house. Charles Gould and his Satin Strings provide music from 8 p.m. till 2 a.m. in the Crystal Bay Club on Lake Tahoe's beautiful North Shore.

North Tahoe Is New Home For Dr. Benson And Family

The community of Kings Beach has gained the services of a new Doctor of Chiropractic in the person of Dr. John Benson, who opened his office at the North Tahoe Village complex, and now Incline has six new residents since his family joined him in June. They are purchasing a home there.

The Doctor's family includes his wife Margory, daughters, Cindy 17, Shawn 14, and Robin 11 1/2 and son Brian 5 1/2. They enjoy scouting (Mrs. Benson's meritorious record as a scout leader preceded her to the Lake) and all outdoor sports, and chose the north lake district as a home-site after four years of skiing in the area.

A Palmer graduate, Dr. Benson practiced for five years in Santa Clara, had offices in Los Gatos, and prior to moving to the West Coast, practiced in St. Petersburg, Florida.

An active participant, Benson is a member of the North Lake Tahoe Chamber of Commerce, publicity chairman and chairman of the by-laws revision committee of the North Tahoe Community Club, and has attended Masonic meetings at the Crystal Bay Club.

Cindy, who will be a senior at the new Incline High School, recently completed a self-improvement course given by John Robert Powers.

Famed Boat 'Sea Stag' Now Plying Lake Tahoe's Waters "Vive Les Girls" In Fourth Week

SEA STAG II AND OWNER — Mr. James Viso, who with Fess Parker and others has purchased the former Kaiser Estate 'Fleur du Lac,' has brought the speed boat Sea Stag II from Santa Cruz, to ply the waters of Tahoe; Sea Stag is former cruise boat operated on Santa Cruz Bay by Stagnaro Brothers, will fulfill similar capacity on Tahoe. —Sun Photo.

A marvelous tourist attraction has come to the north shore; the largest and fastest ocean-going, passenger-carrying speed boat in the world, the Sea Stag II, 36 feet long, 11 1/2 feet wide, weighing eight tons, and powered by a 650 h.p., 12 cylinder Hall Scott marine engine.

The speedcraft, which carries 32 passengers at speeds up to 40 m.p.h., was purchased by Mr. James Viso of Santa Clara to ply the waters of Tahoe taking tourists for a 45-minute trip of approximately 20 miles, including a lakeside look at the former Kaiser Estate, 'Fleur du Lac,' and other points of interest.

Sea Stag II has carried 100,000 passengers on harbor cruises at Santa Cruz from May 28, 1946 until March 1960, and was a chase-boat for the government during development of the hydrofoil, being the only boat fast enough to keep up with the new craft.

The Stag leaves on daily tours from Tahoe Marina Lodge in Tahoe City at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m., piloted by Paul Clutts, a licensed pilot and marine mechanic with 17 years of experience at Tahoe.

Viso, and partner Fess Parker and others, have purchased the former Kaiser Estate and are in the midst of an extensive rehabilitation and restoration program.

The all-new 1968 production of "Vive Les Girls" moves into its fourth week at North Lake Tahoe's Nevada Lodge — highlights some of the most exciting performances ever witnessed at Tahoe.

Productions are staged nightly in Nevada Lodge's Topaz Room. Conceived and produced by master showmen, Frederic Apar, "Vive Les Girls" is a dynamic array of Parisian glamour, spotlighting continental showgirls, brilliant costumes, unique set designs, punctuated with exciting music and choreography. It is offered as an adults-only potpourri of sophisticated for visitors to the unspoiled shores of North Lake Tahoe.

For the 1968 production, producer Apar is starring baritone, Grant Griffin and songstress, Line Turner, plus some of the most fascinating specialty acts ever gathered under one bill. Griffin, frequent guest on Joey Bishop's television show, is reminiscent of the late Mario Lanza. The magnetic quality of his lyric baritone, plus his captivating stage presence, has impressed audiences across the United States.

Line Turner is a sultry songstress from Australia. Her shimmering beauty and distinctive song stylings are a highlight of the show. The combined talents of Griffin and Miss Turner provide a firm platform for the "Vive Les Girls" take-off . . . as the continuing thread through the show is a series of lavish production numbers featuring a bevy of startlingly beautiful showgirls in creative production numbers.

A shower in honor of bride-to-be Miss Linda Stout was given by Mrs. Liane Myers Saturday evening, June 22, at the Kay home in Truckee.

Government Rapped On Control Of Tahoe Water

United States government was Saturday accused of showing a patent lack of consideration for interests of Lake Tahoe Basin residents and the state of California in its regulation, control and use of Lake Tahoe water.

"The land owners surrounding Lake Tahoe have never been compensated for lands and facilities damaged by the regulation of water in Lake Tahoe," said Robert G. Eiland, assistant director of California Department of Water Resources.

He spoke at the annual membership meeting of the League to Save Lake Tahoe at Tahoe Sands auditorium.

"Lands and facilities at Lake Tahoe can be damaged in two ways when water is regulated at the Lake Tahoe dam," Eiland continued.

"Lands and beaches are inundated when water levels are high. Piers, wharfs, buildings and marinas are damaged by wave action when high water levels and winds occur simultaneously. Water levels in Lake Tahoe will be high in the majority of years. Therefore, these kinds of damages will occur in most years unless appropriate precautionary action is taken by the United States," he said.

Eiland reported that lake interests can also be damaged when the lake level is allowed to recede to its natural rim during a series of dry years.

"When this occurs, use of marinas, piers, and other facilities is severely restricted," Eiland said.

"It last occurred in 1961. It resulted from releasing water to meet Floriston Rates on the Truckee River and the use of water for low priority purposes," he said.

Low priority purpose hit hardest by Eiland was the use of too much water on the New Lands Project, a federal development and wildlife preserve east of Sparks.

Eiland charged the U.S. Secretary of the Interior with continuing to act without due consideration of Lake Tahoe and California interests.

He urged that the agreement provide for a precautionary draw down of Lake Tahoe during the flood runoff season; establishment of criteria to insure that Lake Tahoe will not be lowered below its natural rim during a series of dry years; and a change in Floriston Rates which currently favor the New Lands Project.

Committee Named For Arts Ball

Virginia Hoyt of Incline Village has been named as Chairman of the Second Annual Beaux Arts Ball being held at the Ski Incline Lodge on Saturday evening, August 31, with proceeds benefitting the Incline Village Fine Arts Guild.

The gala event, which is invitational, will feature a continuous buffet from 9 p.m. till midnight and dress is to be formal or semi-formal.

New Progress Report From Tahoe City PUD

At a special meeting of the Board of Directors of Tahoe City Public Utility District held on July 5, 1968, it was decided to hold a bond election some time late in September or early October of 1968 to obtain permission to sell additional bonds as participating funds to go along with federal grant funds which were authorized at a meeting of the California Water Resources Control Board on July 3, 1968.

The Board of Directors also authorized engineer Dewante to start the design surveys and the design work on the main trunk line from Timberland to Sugar Pine Point State Park so that this project can be completed by the end of 1970.

The State Department of Fish & Game expressed considerable pleasure with this action, for it is estimated that Sugar Pine Point State Park will be used for camping during the summer of 1970. Mr. Jim Viso, the new owner of the Kaiser Estate, appeared before the Board and requested that if Tahoe City could not sewer the Kaiser Estate by the end of 1969, he would be willing to finance the extension of the line to that area, provided that the District would be willing to reimburse him for the cost of the project.

With these recent events, it appears now that the Kaiser Estate will probably be sewered by the end of 1969 without the need of Mr. Viso's offer. In an additional action, the Board decided to move the controversial sewer pond to the area presently occupied by the Tahoe City Treatment Plant and holding ponds. Manager Layton was instructed to cancel the application for the land development permit as originally submitted. (Reasons were based upon the protests by local citizens and property owners and also on the fact that the Bureau of Reclamation set an annual fee of $10,000 to $12,000 per year for the use of the land.)

Engineer Dewante advised the District that it would probably cost the District an additional $10,000 to locate all of the facilities on the existing land owned by the District, but that certainly this was well worth it in the face of the high rental rate of the Bureau of Reclamation. It was pointed out to the Board of Directors by Attorney Paul Chamberlain that the Department of Fish and Game at its facilities near the Coast Guard Station in Lake Forest refuses to pay its share of the cost of the sewerage facilities as every other property is.

The Fish and Game also are asking that they be paid a higher amount for the easement that they are giving up for the installation of the sewer line than any of the other properties are being paid. The Directors agreed that this matter would be fought all the way to the State Legislature if necessary rather than make special concessions to any property to the disadvantage of all other properties.

Little City of Charm

Ever pass through the "Little City of Charm"?

Though it hasn't used this old slogan for years, Mesa, a 15-minute drive east of Phoenix in Arizona, is reported by National Automobile Club to still be just that.

All around this desert city lie citrus groves and date orchards. All around it stand old-style Western homes. Graceful trees line the streets. And nearby lakes offer that full range of water sports.

The Placer County Office of Education has moved to their new building located in Shepard Square, 1230 High Street in Auburn.

For the first time in many years, all areas of the county schools office will be at one location. The business office, including computer facilities, plus the curriculum department, instructional materials Center, psychological services, nurses and health services, attendance coordinators, and education supervisors will all be included.

An "open house" is planned at a later date and the public will be invited to tour the facilities at that time.

Donner Doings

By Vi White
Donner Lake Lodge was humming again last weekend with the sailing club and the Clampers. Dancing went on 'til the wee hours of the morning.

The installation dinner for the Donner Lake Sailing Club was well attended with 36 enjoying delicious New York steaks.

New officers are: Fred Hodder, commodore; vice commodore Dick Good; rear commodore Dick Lewis; staff commodore is past commodore Leiland Brown. It was a pleasure to turn over all the records to new secretary-treasurer Jan Hodder after serving the club for three years. It's a great group that loves the challenge of shifting winds on Donner.

Winners of the regatta after a third race Sunday were: Lloyd Pratt, Fred Hodder and Ed Corum.

The Clampers had gathered for a plaque dedication at Old Chinatown Saturday and can they create a lot of noise!

They sure love to dance too and were mighty colorful in their red shirts and black hats. The button had caught them too; some are huge and cover a lot of hat or shirt.

Old Chinatown is along East River Street. Hundreds of Orientals were used to build the Central Pacific Railroad over Donner Summit and they settled along the river afterward. Their colony was burned several times and gradually they left Truckee because of the bitter feeling among the townspeople who didn't like the way they took jobs and worked for less. Many moved up to Summit City though and helped build the road to Meadow Lake and the dam there.

Glad to see Hal Williams is back as gate keeper at the Donner Lake Property Owners beach this year.

The Sierra Tinker Belles Garden Club held a meeting Tuesday, first being treated to pie and coffee at Dorothy Maragliano's lakefront home. Then the girls walked on through the woods to Dawn Whitney's for the business meeting.

This week the members are busy at Dot's making things to advertise the coming Flower Show Aug. 10. A bazaar will be added this year, and local artists will display paintings. There will be a cleanup soon at the old checking station to make ready for the affair. Please plan to enter an exhibit too.

Several dead trees spoil the drive along old Highway 40 on the lake; perhaps they should be the next item for attention. Some of them are on state property.

Snow is melting fast and only a few patches are left, but have you noticed the big crop of new cones on the pines? Some clusters have three. Does this mean that we'll be in for a big winter? Some oldtimers say yes.

It's a good thing that Squaw didn't plan on that annual Fourth of July race — it would have been a short one with such little snow left.

The new phone book covers certainly have pretty pictures of the area — winter and summer — featuring the Truckee River, Donner Summit, the Pioneer Monument and I 80 above Donner Lake.

Hazel and Harold Hall have the most colorful garden; their slope is just vivid. Shows what help sun is up here. We know whoever the new owners are, they will be proud to have such a show place and gorgeous view. We're happy to know that the Halls intend staying in the area, though.

Just above Hazel and Harold along the upper road, the George Rasmussen's have their home and are they busy fixing it up, making new rooms for more convenience. They had a busy winter managing the restaurant up at Boreal Ridge and now have Kisky Ann, the popular hamburger and frosty freeze spot near the high school.

Babette Hauelsen has had Art Dollar and his Ponderosa Builders adding on a room to her little haven on old Highway 40.

Many new homes are going up all around: the Glen Hansen's were up again and decided to cut down a big tree because it was leaning toward where they plan to build and are they glad. It had a rotten core, so now they will have plenty of firewood, too.

Morby Swanson and his neighbors over on Southshore Drive are very happy with the way the Helms Construction Company are covering up the sewer pipes that are being installed. In many cases, more parking spots are made available and smoothed over.

There will no doubt be a big change taking place at Donner Lake when the lines are all in; new buildings will certainly change the landscape. We have plans to take movies via boat of the shoreline now, just to remember it when.

Understand several youngsters have been bitten by chipmunks recently. Please warn your children that these little animals, while cute, can be very dangerous, possibly rabid.

Another warning should be heeded certainly. When lightning storm hits, it's a good practice to get off the lake immediately. Some waterskiers were asking for trouble last week when they were out. One bolt sent a charge through the Dr. Widenmann cabin and burned out their stereo. They recalled their experience at Gold Lake last year when a couple was struck and killed by lightning while out trolling. So get off the water during a flashy storm, please.

We've noticed that fishermen are catching several new plants of Brook Trout. Did the California Fish and Game make a mistake putting them in Donner or what? Never thought we'd be catching Brookies here.

That persistent fisherman, Ernie LaVoie, was up again and brought in a couple of big macks to Lake Shore Motel Sunday. Saturday he trolled all day without luck but he proved he hasn't lost his touch. Lucky.

Wasn't that full moon a beauty as it came up golden to cast a bright ray over the water?

Many wildflowers are in full bloom now — Queen Ann's Lace, columbine, poppies, mimulus, mint, spirea and geranium. Summer is here, but with breezes.

Ponderosa Golfers In Tourney

Twenty members of the Ponderosa Golf Club in Truckee played during the club's Scotch Foursome Match held on Sunday, July 7 with winners Lauren Russell and Rosalie Mahakian in first place, Lauren Russell and Mike Ellis second, and Bill Knapp and Marie Bell coming in third. (Russell was teamed twice because of a shortage of male players.)

Ladies Day on Tuesday, July 9 found 13 players participating. Liz Carroll had a net of 69 and Hazel Nixon netted 72. Fewest putts titleholders were Liz Carroll with 27 and Mary Ann Tonkin with 28.

The First Ladies Invitational at the Ponderosa has been scheduled for Sept. 24. Ladies from eight golf clubs will be invited from clubs in Auburn, South Tahoe and Reno.

Liane Myrtis Kay Married To Kenneth Edward Myers

Liane Myrtis Kay, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Kay of Truckee, became the bride of Kenneth Edward Myers in a double-ring ceremony at Squaw Valley by president of the Tahoe North Branch of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

The bride wore a gown of french embroidered lace and taffeta with sleeves wrist length. A floor length skirt and train and a pearl trimmed elbow length veil. She carried white roses with ivory.

Bridal attendants were all attired in gowns of yellow crepe and chiffon, yellow net headpieces with daisies and yellow carnation. Judy Seeber and Carol Kay, the bridesmaids, carried yellow carnations.

Zachery Kay acted as ring-bearer and Lisa Brownfield was the flower girl dressed in yellow and white, carrying a basket of white and yellow daisies.

Acting for the groom were Steve Seeber as best man and Quinton Kay and Edward Seeber as ushers.

Reception was held at the Hof-

Brau in Squaw Valley after the wedding.

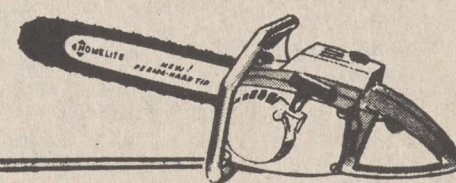

The newlyweds are living at Keddle following a honeymoon at San Francisco and a tour of Northern California and the redwoods.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Irene Myers of Quincy and the late Mr. Paul Myers.

Osborn Birthdays Are Celebrated

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Osburn this week feted five members of their family who have birthdays in the month of July, with a dinner party.

Those being honored at the annual festivity with gifts and decorated cakes, include Deborah Waller who will be two years of age on the 27; her mother, Mrs. John Waller and the latter's brother, Jimmie Osburn both celebrating July 17; Gene Osburn, July 26 and Carolyn Osburn whose birthday occurred July 3.

NEW DIRECTORS ON JOB - Three directors of Incline Village General Improvement District are on the job today. Their first major task was to decide which of 13 engineering firms bidding, should be chosen for the design of Incline Village's treated sewage export line. Above, Wally White, district manager, goes over one of the proposals with the new directors standing, from left, Howard Smith, Dave Quandt and Roger Howard. Other board members include George Sayre, chairman and Clarence Herda.

SMOKEY BEAR AWARD - "In Recognition of Distinguished Public Service" is received by, from left, William T. Hartman, vice president of Keep California Green Inc., and land maintenance superintendent for East Bay Municipal Utility District at Oakland; from Lee Nobles, assistant public service director, KRON-TV at San Francisco; Francis H. Raymond, California state forester, looks on.

Keep California Green Inc. Wins Public Service Award

SACRAMENTO — Keep California Green Inc., a citizen sponsored non-profit corporation, was recognized last week for its 16-year performance of wildfire prevention activities.

Replacement For Bridges

CARSON CITY — To improve highway safety on U.S. 395 south of Carson City, Nevada, Highway Department is contracting for replacement of the Cradlebaugh bridges.

Bids on the new bridges and approaches will be opened on Aug. 1 at highway headquarters in Carson City.

Included in the safety project will be the erection of two reinforced concrete bridges, some channel widening of the Carson river, and raising of the existing approaches. The one-half mile long job will cost an estimated $400,000, according to State Highway Engineer John Bawden.

To carry traffic around the bridge sites, a paved detour will be constructed on the upstream or west side of the river and paralleling slough. The bridge over the main channel of the Carson will be 270 feet long and 44 feet wide compared to the present length of 200 feet and width of 24 feet.

California Fire Prevention Committee, composed of governmental agencies and major California commercial and industrial firms, met in San Francisco to review plans for fire prevention activities in the coming critical months and to present the annual "Smoky Bear" award.

This plaque is given each year for "distinguished public service." The presentation was made by Lee Nobles, assistant public service director of KRON-TV, Channel 4 in San Francisco, last year's recipient.

He said, "The theory of the entire Keep California Green Inc. program is to get the man on the street involved in fire prevention. They have been very successful in relaying their conservation message — on a personal basis."

Keep California Green Inc. was represented by William T. Hartman, land maintenance superintendent for East Bay Municipal Utility District. Hartman is a vice president of the Sacramento based volunteer organization.

"Any success that our program enjoys is entirely attributable to our county committees," Hartman said. "These are the people that carry the program and deserve the plaques."

Hartman concluded, "I'm happy to accept this recognition of the work that is being done in fire prevention by hundreds of volunteers throughout our state."

Property Tax Relief Bill Is Criticized

SACRAMENTO — Sen. Stephen P. Teale, D-West Point, said that his attitude toward property tax relief has not changed during the entire session, but of all the proposals before the Legislature, AB 149 is the poorest.

Teale made the remarks in letters sent today to all supervisors in his 12-county Third Senatorial District to explain why he voted against AB 149, July 9, in the Senate Finance Committee.

Teale, and Committee Chairman George Miller, D-Martinez, cast the two dissenting votes before the committee. The bill would give the $155 million set aside for tax relief directly to the counties.

In the letter to the supervisors, Teale said he was still in favor of any measure which will afford relief to the property taxpayer.

"There are a number of different proposals presently before us and other mechanisms available to accomplish the very same thing you and I are concerned about and of all these proposals, I feel AB 149 is the poorest," Teale said.

"I think in assuming any portion of the burden that would otherwise fall on the property tax base, that we have an obligation to assure that the functions which we finance are the most pressing and most meaningful programs and ones which will afford relief and or services to the individual who is most seriously affected by the high property tax rates. I refer specifically to the individual with low fixed income who cannot meet the increased property tax bill he is faced with each year," he said.

Teale told the supervisors that "AB 149 does nothing to assure you of an increased tax base with which to finance local government nor does it assure you that you will be able to cut the tax rate by any amount."

"It does, however, lay you open to criticism by the individual taxpayer who finds a very minor tax credit attached to an increased tax bill when he receives his next tax bill from the county tax collector."

Teale reiterated that he was still concerned about the property tax relief problem and would continue to spend most of his time in an attempt to find a solution, but at the present time.

BUDDING TAXIDERMISTS — Each summer the Nevada State Museum in Carson City chooses six teenagers who show a special desire and talent for learning the art of preparing study skins and live mounts of birds and mammals. The six-week course meets for four hours every day, five days a week. In addition to teaching zoological techniques in the laboratory, the instructor takes students on field trips to learn different methods of collecting, where to look for what, and so on. At the end of the course, each gets a certificate. Here the instructor shows this year's students how to position a mounted sandhill crane in a natural stance. Watching closely are, left to right, Wendy Taylor, Lynne Millman, Keith Eaton, Carol Shaw, Stan Lloyd and Lance Clawson.

Tax Bureau Proposal Rapped

SACRAMENTO — Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposal of a new State Department of Revenue, now under consideration by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, was twitted today as "a snow job that will leave California's taxpayer out in the cold, tin cup in hand."

Paul Leake, Woodland editor and member of the State Board of Equalization, also predicted that the tax bureau under discussion "would provide a hybrid whose tendrils would choke the voice of taxpayers and centralize more power in the Governor's office."

The scheme, he added "has been around so long it is fossilized. Even a radical heart transplant couldn't revive it."

Claims of a saving of upwards of 7 million dollars by the merger of the state board, the Franchise Tax Board, and part of the state controller's functions were referred to by Leake "as blue sky estimates that can't possibly be documented."

"Right off the bat," Leake continued, "Governor Reagan, or whoever happens to be the state's chief executive, would add six additional persons to the state's payroll at yearly salaries ranging from approximately $23,000 to around $26,000 each."

"The governor himself has driven home the message that the state already is the victim of 'payroll padding and high administrative overhead,'" Leake said.

"What is more unpalatable to the taxpayers," Leake said, "is that appointees of the governor would take over and the people would have no say in how they are taxed. The governor well understands that the image of a tax czar is repugnant in itself."

Leake added, "In view of his campaign promises, it is difficult to believe that the governor is heart and soul for creating another new tax agency of which he would be the dictator. He pledged that if he were elected governor, the state's government would be controlled by the people and for the people, and political bosses would no longer be so powerful and 'taxation without representation' would come to an end."

The tax officials recalled that in his inaugural address, the governor said: "Government is the people's business and every man, woman and child becomes a shareholder in the first penny of taxes paid."

If Assembly Bills 1481 and 1482 were approved, the four elected members of the State Board of Equalization would be relieved of all their important tax duties except those controlling property. Leake pointed out that "the state board is acclaimed nationwide for its efficiency and economy."

"Furthermore," he said, "the board is manned by the people at the polls and is answerable to the taxpayers."

Antique Cars At Fair

SACRAMENTO — Collectors and dealers from all over the state will assemble their colorful mementos of bygone days for the California Antique Show and Sale to be held July 30 through Aug. 4 at The California Exposition in Sacramento.

The show, one of the most popular programs of the old State Fair, will be staged in one of the acre-size buildings of Cal Expo's Fair activities center. The building is air-conditioned for the protection of the valuable antiques on display and to provide a comfortable showplace for the visitors' enjoyment.

A setting reminiscent of the early days in California will create an atmosphere appropriate to the show's exhibit. Authenticity will be added to the scene by a display of horse-drawn buggies, antique autos and an old-time fire engine or two.

Joyce Seawell, well-known antique show personality, is managing this year's show at The Exposition.

The larger space available for the show this year in its new setting will allow visitors, both devotees and browsers alike, to view the exhibits in greater leisure and comfort than ever before.

SIERRA FIELD AND STREAM

BY THE FRIENDLY OLD GAME WARDEN

The friendly old warden who normally writes this column has avoided issues with political overtones for obvious reasons.

Now, however, in the interests of trying to keep our sportsmen informed and trying to protect their rights it seems time to speak out loud and clear.

The administration-sponsored crime bill that has already been passed by Congress would seem to be but a foot in the door. Immediate follow-up efforts are attempting to include rifles and shotguns in the restrictive measures already applied to hand guns.

But the even further incredible restrictions that opportunist politicians are trying to ram down our throats are not only impossible, they are downright, calculated, obvious measures to take away our personal liberties and constitutionally guaranteed rights.

We are fools if we relinquish those rights.

History tells us that five democracies, previous to ours, have existed in past centuries and that each has failed because the people of each voluntarily surrendered their authority, a step at a time, to the power-seeking leaders who were eager to grab and use it.

Let's not be the sixth.

The newest proposals: Would withhold Dingell-Johnson and Pittman-Robertson funds from Nevada Fish and Game Commission if the Nevada Legislature fails to enact a federal government approved firearms-permit law by June 30, 1971.

How's that for blackmail? These funds are vitally important to the very existence and operation of the commission and we could not carry on without them at more than skeleton level.

These funds represent your dollars, in the taxes that you pay when you buy fishing tackle, guns or ammunition, and the federal government should be no more than a temporary custodian of them, before they are apportioned according to the provisions of the DJ and PR laws.

Would require a registration fee of one dollar per gun per year, which is absurd. This sum wouldn't start to pay for the fingerprinting, including the time of the postal people who mail the fingerprints, the FBI people who classify and file them and the extra equipment that would be required by way of file cabinets, ink pads and cards.

But of course the biggest part of the cost would be in terms of the time that your local law enforcement force, postal employees, internal revenue service and other federal employees would spend, for years to come, and that you, the taxpayer, must pay for, in increased taxes.

Would require that a gun owner or new purchaser obtain either a state permit or federal gun license. If your state does not adopt a gun permit system that meets federal standards, the government will step in and carry out the licensing in that state. How autocratic and powerful can our tax supported, publicly elected officials get?

After Sept. 1, 1971, no one can legally possess a gun or ammunition without an approved (federally) state or federal license.

What about that old shotgun of dad's out in the garage or up in the rafters that is yours now because dad passed away, but that you haven't thought about for 10 years? You'll be a criminal now and if someone catches up with you, you'll pay to the tune of two years in prison and a $2,000 fine for violating registration requirements. That's the minimum. Maximum would be five years and a $5,000 fine for possession or sale of firearms in violation of licensing provisions, or for falsifying or forging registration information.

To get a license to buy a gun — shotgun, rifle, or handgun — you'd have to:

1. Sign a valid identification document showing your name, age, signature, address and photograph.

2. Get a statement from your local chief law enforcement officer — sheriff or chief of police — good for 6 months — attesting that you are not under indictment, have not been convicted of a crime punishable by more than a year in prison, are not a fugitive from justice or are otherwise not prohibited from possessing ammunition and/or firearms.

3. Get a statement from your doctor, if you have one, also good for 6 months, that you are capable of possessing a firearm safely and responsibly. If you haven't a doctor, you'd have to go see one, even though you're not sick.

4. Sign a statement that to the best of your belief you may lawfully possess firearms, under both federal and state laws.

5. Provide a complete set of fingerprints, to be certified by a state, local or federal law enforcement officer, along with a photograph of yourself.

6. If you're a juvenile or the parent(s) of one, don't bother. Gun licenses are denied to juveniles.

Cal Expo Race Track Lacks Nothing

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — The only thing lacking will be guaranteed winners.

Otherwise, California Exposition planners have spared nothing to provide a maximum of comfort and accessibility for both punters and horsemen at the new $5-million racing plant, California's first all-new racing facility to be unveiled in the last 28 years. (Golden Gate Fields in Albany was the last completely new facility to be constructed in 1940).

It's first meet will begin Aug. 26, and will run 14 days, closing on Sept. 10.

Comfort, ease of movement and eye appeal, from the barn area to the jockeys' quarters to the mutual purchasing and cashing areas are the byword at the spacious track area on the north bank of the American River.

Designed by Arthur Froehlich of Pasadena, an expert in the field whose touch is reflected on tracks throughout Northern California and at New York's Aqueduct, the grandstand area, including a 100-foot apron which will provide easy viewing for standees, can accommodate 25,000 persons.

The grandstand proper, built in modular form to allow for future expansion, will seat 6,200 and feature an air-conditioned restaurant and cocktail lounge that can handle 450 in a setting which affords a spectacular view of both the Cal Expo grounds and the racetrack.

An elevator will carry patrons from the main level to the fourth-floor restaurant-lounge facilities. Closed-circuit television, now in vogue throughout the nation's racetracks, will, of course, be in operation throughout the plant to provide a bird's eye view of each race in progress.

Jockeys not involved in a particular race have also been considered by the designers.

Duty Gets Director Post Americans Love To Travel

For Reno National Races

RENO — Jerry Duty, a retired U.S. Air Force colonel who served as operations officer for three of Reno's National Championship Air Races, has assumed duties as air race director for this year's races Sept. 20-22.

Duty, who makes his permanent home in the Newport Beach, Calif., area, has been associated with staging air races since 1964. With the exception of 1966 when he was involved with hydroplane racing, he has acted as operations officer each year since the Reno races were initiated in 1964.

Stanley Brown, chairman of the national event, said of Duty's appointment: "In accordance with the plan inaugurated by the board of trustees of the National Championship Air Races last October we take pleasure in naming Jerry Duty as air race director for 1968."

"Duty has been associated with the Reno races since 1964 and he is widely known on the racing circuit.

Americans love to travel by car, especially in summer. According to the American Automobile Association, some 60 million people will drive 100 billion miles this summer, seeking fun, escape, and a change of scenery. That represents at least 25,000 round trips to the moon and a lot more jostling and fatigue than any astronaut encounters getting there and back.

Why all this holiday traffic? Because people have more money, lots of leisure time, and bigger, stronger cars. Also, credit can be given to improved living accommodations and more and better roads.

In fact, the vacationing motorist faces 3,700,000 miles of roads and streets — more than one mile of road for every square mile in the continental United States!

Yes, summertime is vacation time. And the fun is in the going.

Film-Maker John Ford On New Side Of Camera

California Arts Commission and American Film Institute will join this year to produce the first feature length "Film-on-Film," an educational motion picture on the classic American filmmaker, John Ford.

The announcement was issued by William T. Sesnon Jr., chairman of the California Arts Commission, and George Stevens Jr., director of the American Film Institute, at a press conference in Los Angeles.

The educational film on John Ford will be produced by American filmmaker-critic, Peter Bogdanovich, well known film scholar, whose book on John Ford has just been published by the University of California Press. An announcement will soon be made of the purchase by a major film studio of Bogdanovich's first independently made feature film, "Targets."

The John Ford special film is scheduled for completion some time this winter.

This film will be the first in a series, according to Stevens, which will "serve both history and education. It will capture and record in a single experience the scope and spirit of the filmmaker and provide cinematic reference points for the ever-enlarging numbers who study film as art. We want to use the film form to examine the film language, classic filmmakers and film history. John Ford is a perfect beginning."

The Ford film will be distributed by the American Film Institute, to schools, film societies, arts councils and libraries, the two sponsoring organizations said.

Stevens pointed out that sequences from classic American films are unavailable to schools, film societies and other interested groups who wish to study them.

"There has been little direct dialogue between the filmmakers and educators, writers, critics and students. With the Film-on-Film project we plan to change this," he said.

The John Ford educational motion picture will combine film clips from many Ford films with footage to be filmed with Ford and other individuals with whom he has worked during his career.

Ford was selected for this film project by the California Arts Commission, according to James Silke, commission member who heads the group's Film and TV committee.

"Ford's work personifies the classic American film form and has influenced the quality and substance of American life," Silke said.

The commission, according to Silke, recognizes that "the motion picture is a major American art form."

California is so closely associated with the American film industry, the project is particularly appropriate," he said.

"The commission is obligated to serve the entire state and in our judgment a can of film provides the most viable and most up-to-date means of reaching this huge audience," according to Silke.

California Arts Commission, which is backing the John Ford film project along with the American Film Institute, sponsors a wide variety of programs throughout the state in the visual and performing arts.

Coins To Honor Top Jazz-men

Officials of the New Orleans International JAZZFEST '68 are commemorating the success of the occasion by issuing two coins dedicated to outstanding New Orleans musicians.

Through their national and international appearances in the name of traditional New Orleans music, Louis Armstrong and Pete Fountain have brought fame and glory to jazz and to the Crescent City.

These two artists will be featured on commemorative coins minted for the premiere of the New Orleans International Jazz Festival. The city of New Orleans and its citizens feel this is one way of paying a lasting tribute to these outstanding musicians.

Television, concert and recording audiences recognize Armstrong and Fountain as sons of New Orleans — "The Birthplace of Jazz."

Mail orders are being accepted for the nickel silver coins, which sell for 50 cents each and for the sterling silver ones, which are registered and numbered. The sterling silver doubloons sell for $10 each. Checks or money orders should include 25 cents handling fee and should be addressed to JAZZFEST '68, Room 1022, Carondelet Building, New Orleans, La. 70130.

The Jazzfest program committee is also offering an official program containing the JAZZFEST '68 schedule, history of jazz, artists' profiles and a section on jazz today.

Mail orders should include $1 for each program ordered plus 25 cents handling charges and should be addressed to Program Committee, New Orleans International Jazz Festival, P.O. Box 2732, New Orleans, La. 70116.

Property Tax Relief Opposed

By CLEM WHITTAKER JR.
Editor,
California Feature Service
Qualification for the November ballot of a property tax limitation measure known as the Watson Initiative has brought a warning of "tax trap" from some of the state's best known leaders in education, tax and business affairs.
Passage of the measure not only would mean chaos for school and government finance in California but probably would result in sharp escalation of state income and sales tax rates as well, said Jack Rees, State Executive Secretary of the California Teachers Association, and Robert C. Brown, Executive Vice President of the California Taxpayers' Association.
Rees and Brown announced formation of a citizens committee, "Californians Against the Tax Trap Initiative," to oppose the measure.

The California Teachers Association opposes the Watson proposal, according to Rees, because "it would mean the loss of local fiscal authority insofar as education and welfare programs are concerned." He said the chief beneficiaries of the plan would appear to be apartment landlords and land speculators while the average homeowner would be hit by soaring income and sales taxes levied to replace property tax revenues lost to the cities and counties under the proposal.
Brown said that the California Taxpayers Association likewise opposes the concept of centralizing taxing authority at the state level, warning that to do so means loss of local authority and control over most of the services of direct concern to the average taxpayer.

Rees and Brown said that the Watson "Tax Trap" initiative carries frightening implications for the state in many other respects. Among the problems they cited are:

1. If the income tax were used to make up for the loss of property tax revenue, the present rates would have to be raised at least 300 percent.
2. If the sales tax were used to replace the loss of property tax revenues the present sales tax rate would have to be more than doubled to about 12 cents on the dollar.
3. It is unwise to include in the state constitution finance provisions that are totally inflexible.
4. The plan will upset in a dangerous and frustrating manner the taxing authority and control of local and state governmental units.
5. The plan leaves unanswered, and in all likelihood dependent upon new court interpretations, how many education and welfare related services would or could be financed.
6. The plan does not eliminate or reduce governmental services. It merely withdraws the financing of such services.

CHP Exam

PLACERVILLE — If you are adaptable and understand people the California Highway Patrol may have a place for you, Capt. W. T. Kramer of the CHP office here said in announcing an examination for state traffic officer on AUG. 24.

An applicant must be between ages 21 and 31, 5 feet 2 to 6 feet 6, in good health and a high school graduate or the equivalent.

Applications are available at any office of the CHP, Department of Motor Vehicles, California State Employment Service or State Personnel Board, and must be filed by Aug. 2.

Bank Will Loan To Minority Areas

Bank of America will try to advance up to $100 million for real estate loans in minority areas in California according to Rudolph A. Peterson, president. More than $10 million could be loaned by the end of the year, he said.

Peterson said the funds will be available in Watts, Hunters Point-Bayview and other areas classified by the Federal Housing Administration as riot prone and blighted. The bank will use special lending officers to interpret credit data in light of minority problems, he said. "This is not a hand-out or a welfare program," Peterson stressed. "It is an attempt to increase the volume of sound home loans in minority areas... The lending officers have been carefully selected for the project; all have had extensive experience in minority areas."

Travis Airlift Command Post Is 'Nerve Center'

TRAVIS AFB, Calif. — The Airlift Command Post at Travis Air Force Base could well be called the "nerve center of the base."

Or, as Col. James F. Wylie, chief of the 60th Military Airlift Wing ACP says, "Nothing happens with flights at Travis that is not controlled, coordinated and monitored by ACP."

ACP has positive command and control of all aircraft entering and leaving the base. Col. Wylie puts it this way, "We share the responsibility for all flights with the man in the cockpit."

In order to assure the Military Airlift Command is able to carry out its mission, ACP has the responsibility for calling in experts to assist with whatever is needed to make certain a flight will complete its assignment with a minimum of delay.

ACP controls all types of missions through the base — MAC, Tactical Air Command, Air Guard, Air Force Reserve and civil contract carriers.

Complete flight information on all incoming and outgoing aircraft is logged on the mission boards at the command post. This includes point of departure, destination, aircraft number, passengers or cargo carried, fuel and maintenance needed.

This specialized information is then relayed to proper sections on the base in order to have services available when the aircraft arrives. Some of the sections involved in addition to maintenance are fleet service, protocol, customs, public health, personal equipment, petroleum oil and lubricant (POL), freight and base operations.

Despite being the busiest base in MAC, ACP personnel are proud of the fact that Travis almost never pleads "ramp saturation." According to M. Sgt. Jack Hill, planes which are not offloading heavy cargo and are not due maintenance servicing are scheduled into surrounding bases such as Oakland or McClellan AFB, Calif., when Travis facilities are crowded.

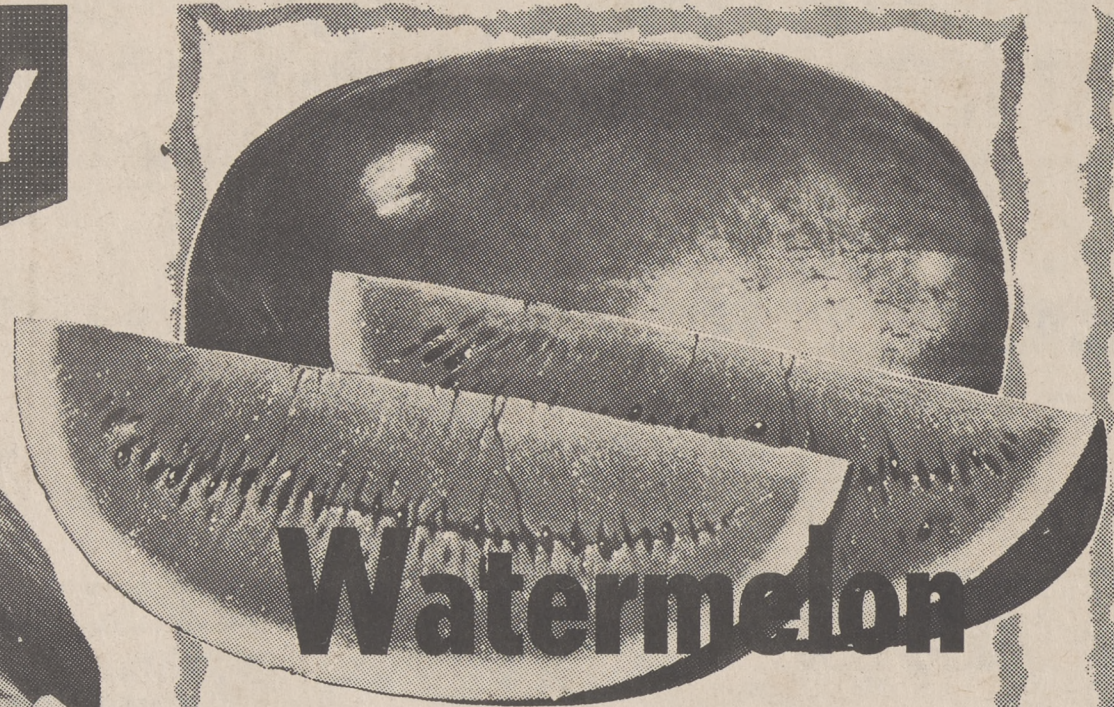

Travis attempts to keep the average ground time for through flights to two hours. Ground time includes maintenance, fueling, fleet (interior cleaning and food restocking) servicing, crew changes and offloading or onloading passengers and cargo.

This work goes on 24 hours a day, seven days a week. There are five airmen and two duty officers per ACP shift. The work week is six days with a three-day relief for the airmen, while the officers work a nine-day shift and then a nine-day flying break.

Col. Wylie praised his crew as "hard-working, efficient men." He noted some were given command post responsibility after a very short time in the service and about 30 days of training with the section. This stepped-up training program was necessary because of a shortage of help, Col. Wylie explained.

Clean Air Is Becoming A Thing Of The Past

By PROF. WENDELL MORDY
University of Nevada RENO — How clean is our cleanest air? Not very clean, according to Dr. Vincent J.
Schaefer, who directs research in atmospheric sciences at the State University of New York.
During a visit to the University of Nevada's Desert Research Institute, Schaefer told about a recent trip in search of the country's cleanest air. He and several other scientists traveled down the Green River in Utah — one of the most isolated sections of the United States — for five days. They sampled the air along the river and in the nearby back country.

They measured at least 1,000 particles of foreign matter per cubic centimeter (cc) of air in the most isolated portion of Desolation Canyon and more than 10 times that amount on the plateaus above.

This amount is very low compared to urban centers, where as many as 120,000 particles per cc can be found.

But 1,000 particles per cc is about five times the amount which would have been found 10 years ago, judging from increases recorded in similar remote areas of Arizona, Idaho and Wyoming.

Ten years ago, air was considered "clean" if it contained 200 or less particles per cc. Today, such low concentrations are found only on the Pacific coast in such places as Oregon (after the wind has been blowing for three days) or far out at sea. Under normal conditions, within 500 miles of either Europe or America, air is no longer "clean."

Even in places where pollution is at a minimum, such as the Green River country, the increase over the last few years has been enormous.

One of the difficulties in studying air pollution is the lack of measurements of the level of pollution just a few years ago.
Only major cities have kept records for any length of time.

Most remote areas where air has been sampled for at least 10 years are places where Schaefer has happened to conduct long-term studies, measuring particles in the air for other purposes.

The purpose of the Green River trip was to find a place to establish a benchmark station to monitor air pollution over the next 10 years.

If a series of such stations were established across the country, we would be able to compare remote areas with urban ones, and to compare the increase in air pollution over time.

In addition to river trips, Schaefer's research group garthers particle information by sampling air every 25 to 50 miles during cross-country flights at altitudes below 3,000 feet. Concentration of pollution is directly related to the existence of urban centers, but a great deal of new information is being collected.

Social Security Booklet Out

RENO — "The most popular booklet we've ever published is again available," Art Johnson, district manager of the Reno Social Security District Office, has announced.

The booklet entitled, "Your Social Security" explains in simple terms, retirement, survivors, disability and medicare insurance. It also explains how benefits are figured and when to apply.

Johnson stated the basic idea of social security is a simple one: During working years, employees, their employers and self-employed people pay Social Security contributions which are pooled in special trust funds.
When earnings stop or are reduced because the worker retires, dies, or becomes disabled, monthly cash benefits are paid to replace part of the earnings the family has lost.

"Since more than nine out of 10 working people in the United States are now building protection for themselves and their families under Social Security, it is important that everyone investigate their rights under the program," Johnson emphasized.

The booklet can be obtained free of charge by phoning the Reno office at 784-5221, or by writing to P. O. Box 7117, Reno, Nev. (89502). The office is located at 811 Ryland St., and is open Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Working people may find it more convenient to call on Thursday evenings when the office remains open until 6:30 p.m.

Law Requires Ambulances Be Double-Checked

All privately-owned ambulances in California must be inspected at least twice a year, in June and December, under a new enforcement procedure announced by H.W. Sullivan, commissioner of California Highway Patrol.

The new procedure, which went into effect in June, affects approximately 800 ambulances operating under authorized emergency vehicle (AEV) permits issued by the CHP.

Permits are issued for a two-year period, and until the semi-annual inspections were made mandatory, ambulances were inspected only prior to issuance of the AEV permit.

New procedures include inspection of 39 required items and notification of ambulance company owners of violations committed by ambulance drivers.

CHP personnel check safety equipment required by the Vehicle Code, such as lamps, siren and brakes, and emergency and first aid equipment required by the California Administrative Code (CAC).

They also examine ambulance records required by the CAC, including data on all calls answered.

Personnel records are checked for data on expiration dates of driver's license, ambulance driver's certificate and first-aid certificate.

The semi-annual inspection was initiated in order to bring the department and the ambulance industry closer together in the solution of mutual operational problems.

Private ambulances are operated by about 300 companies.
The patrol estimates the program will involve 800 man-hours per year. The inspection procedure adds no new requirements for ambulance equipment.

It merely assures conformance with existing requirements of the vehicle code and administrative code.

National Youth Week Next May

WASHINGTON — Legislation to proclaim the first week of May, 1969, as National Youth Week has cleared the Senate and is now before the House for affirmative action, Sen.
Alan Bible has announced.

The bill, co-sponsored by Sen. Bible, is intended to draw attention to the many contributions of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks to youth programs in all 50 states.

Bible noted the Elks, observing their 100th anniversary this year, raise more than $8 million annually for charity and community betterment activities.

"These include support of hospital and training centers for young victims of cerebral palsy, and rehabilitation programs for the blind, deaf and mentally retarded," he said.

Bible added the Elks plan to award a number of scholarships and grants to outstanding young people during the Youth Week observance.

Credit Card 'Revolution' Grows

SAN FRANCISCO — The so-called "credit card revolution" which hit the nation's banking industry two years ago apparently is going stronger than ever, if a mid-year report by the leader in the field is any indication. BankAmericard, the largest of the bank credit cards, told its participating banks that their national program had made some of its greatest strides during the first six months of 1968, continuing to set new records in every category of growth.

Since last December, BankAmericard has:

- Expanded its geographical coverage in the United States to 32 states, an increase of 14 new states since the end of 1967.
- Increased its national gross sales by 60 per cent over the same period last year (from $183,505,449 in the first six months of 1967, to approximately $295,000,000 in the same period this year.)

NEW SUBDIVISION — Tahoe-Carson Realty Inc., of Carson City, Nev., developers of Mark Twain Estates, 16 miles east of Carson City on the old immigrant trail at the foot of historic Six Mile Canyon has officially opened the subdivision with the help of the stars of television's "Laugh In" program, Dan Rowan and Dick Martin. Rowan and Martin, who owns lots in the development, cut the ribbon to mark the opening of the first unit in the subdivision. Mark Twain Estates is developing 1760 acres and offers more than 350 homesites in both Lyon and Storey counties. The first unit that Rowan and Martin officially opened is located wholly in Storey County and is the second subdivision in the history of this historic county of Nevada. The first subdivision, Virginia City, opened officially in 1868. Mark Twain Estates follows 100 years later almost to the day. The developers have named two streets in the first unit in honor of the two comedians who cut the ribbon. Dan Rowan said he has always wanted a street named after him and asked that it go on the maps of the area as "Rowan's Gulch." Dick Martin, who does the comedy to Rowan's straight man in their act wasn't as colorful as Rowan. He asked that the street named for him be simply called "Martin Lane."

New Officials Are Named

NEW YORK, N. Y. — Election of Henry A. Butfield and Ray Dubrowin as vice presidents of Diamond International Corp. and appointment of Vernon M. Grout as treasurer was announced by Richard J. Dubrowin, as vice president—public affairs, will represent Diamond International in government relations in addition to continuing his responsibility for corporate public relations and advertising. He joined the company in 1954. Grout began his Diamond International career in 1955 as an internal auditor. He was named comptroller in 1962.

WHO'S THE FAIREST OF THEM ALL? — The six lovelies competing for the title of 1968 National Wine Queen are, clockwise from left, Karna Small, kneeling; Sandee Nelson, Cathy Johnson, Liz Baldwin, Jan Unser, Georgina Hillierby. The winner will be announced Wednesday when the new Wine Queen is crowned in Sacramento. She will represent California Wine during the month-long National Wine Festival in October. —Photo courtesy Wine Institute.

Employment Record Noted

SAN FRANCISCO — The number of employed Californians advanced to an all-time high in June, unemployment recorded a summertime increase while continuing well below the prior-year level, and the civilian labor force exceeded 8 million for the first time. This review was issued today by the departments of Industrial Relations and Employment.

Total civilian employment moved ahead to a record 7,743,000, an expansion of 99,000 from May and a rise of 249,000, or 3.3 per cent, from June, 1967, according to Albert C. Beeson, director of industrial relations.

Settlement of some trade disputes boosted the May-June upswing. Beeson also noted that the over-the-year measurement was somewhat inflated because work stoppages in June a year ago lowered the employment level at that time.

All major industry categories participated in the advance from May, with the largest gains credited to trade and manufacturing. A share of the job increase in manufacturing reflected settlement of trade disputes, notably that of Bay Area machinists.

The return of workers in some strike-affected electronics plants offset continuation of the employment downturn elsewhere in the aerospace manufacturing complex (electrical equipment, aircraft, missiles and instruments). As a result, employment in the California aerospace complex remained in the neighborhood of 594,000 between May and June, about 24,000 fewer than the December, 1967, high.

Between last June and this, all major groups added workers. Government, services, and trade posted the leading gains, together accounting for more than two-thirds of the total employment growth.

Total unemployment was 392,000 in June, an increase of 48,000 from May. Peter Weinberger, director of employment, announced. The month-to-month rise was expected for this period, Weinberger noted, because the number of students, graduates, and summer job seekers entering the labor market usually exceeds the job supply. The June total of unemployed, however, was 31,000 below a year ago.

The seasonally adjusted unemployment rate in June was 4.6 per cent compared with 4.5 per cent in May and 5.1 per cent in June a year ago.

The California civilian labor force, consisting of the employed and the unemployed available for work and seeking work, was 8,135,000 in June, up from 7,917,000 a year ago.
